

Regarding the December 21 ceremony.

We want to share an important message with all participants of the Sacred Union retreat.

As you know, following the call of spirit, we will gather next winter solstice in Iceland for the purpose of performing a transcendental rite: to unify the sacred feminine and masculine within each of us. Through a commitment to life, performing the rite of "inner marriage."

We have taken into consideration the fact that among the participants who wish to live this experience, there are some who would like to do it under the influence of earth medicines and others only with the power of their presence. In response, we have designed an experience that will allow everyone to participate actively and comfortably.

To accomplish this, we have established two distinct yet complementary roles in the ceremony: the Guardians and the Explorers.

The guardians will go through the ceremony without consuming the power plants, focusing on meditation and chanting with the intention of maintaining harmony within the group. The explorers, on the other hand, will have the role of undertaking a multidimensional journey, under the influence of the power plants, with the purpose of searching for the codes of unity.

The combination of these two roles will allow the interweaving of the group's prayers and intentions in a joint dance, fundamental to carry out the rite of sacred union and the collective prayer for the land.

During the preparation period prior to the retreat, each of you will reflect on the role you wish to assume during the ceremony.

We hope this message will inspire you to consider your role in the solstice ceremony. Your choice will be crucial both individually and collectively.

Love and blessings to all.
